Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Matthew 5:45, that you may be sons of your Father in heaven; for He makes His sun rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the just and on the unjust. (New King James) There are certain phrases unheard until something bad has taken place. Whether it is, God is in control or everything happens for a reason, we can rest assured most people will not bring God into the picture unless something negative has transpired. Another common phrase uttered in difficult times is God makes it to rain on the just and the unjust. However, as you read the words of Matthew 5:45 seen above, you may have noticed there is more to this commonly quoted portion of scripture than you may have known based upon what people say. In fact, I have not heard anyone say, God makes the sun to shine on the just and the unjust. How can this be? Personally, I believe it is due to the fact that blaming God gives us an easy out when it comes to accepting responsibility for the struggles we face in life. Each problem we face in life comes via one of two avenues. The first is based solely upon our personal choices. There are times when we made a bad choice out of a lack of knowledge and paid the price for doing so. That price may have been light, but at other times, it may have been hefty. At other times, we may have known exactly what we were doing, ignoring all warnings and moving forward with a poor choice contrary to a lack of peace and additional red flags....
