Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. 210 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.5in. Anecdotes of ANIMALS. ANECDOTE II. J5etD fountiland of the magistrates inH arbour Grace, inN ewfoundland, had an old dog of the regular web-footed species peculiar to that island, who was in the habit of carrying a lantern before his master at night, as steadily as the most attentive servant could do, stopping short when his master made a stop, and proceeding when he saw him disposed to follow. If his master was absent from home, on the lantern being fixed to his mouth, and the command given, Go fetch thy master, he would immediately set off and proceed directly to the town, which lay at the distance of more than a mile from the place of his masters residence : he would then stop at the door of every house which he knew his master was in the habit of frequenting, and laying down his lantern, growl and strike the door, making all the noise in his power until it was opened ;if his master was not there, he would proceed farther in the same manner, until he had found him. If he had accompanied him only once into a house, this was sufficient to induce him to take that house in his round. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and dont occur in the book.)
