The toxic pathology about sex taught by the church in the 1950s drove me to the brink of suicide, but at age 14 I was given the type of experience that the Gnostics called an Awakening. I hope to explain its importance to those who can hear. It saved my life and set me on a path of pursuing truth wherever it might lead. I am still on that path, because it never ends. At age 23 I was given another such experience, which showed that my mind is not what I thought. I have been exploring its implications ever since as well. At age 27 I helped found the New Reformed Orthodox Order of the Golden Dawn as one Tradition of the Craft, which is a new religion now meeting the needs of at least a million people. I am glad I was able to do that. My MA in Poetry got me hired as an editor for Scientific American Books; then I earned a Ph. D. in Berkeley in order to become a better...
